

Two Ways of Conceptualizing the Spectrum of Development

Spiral Dynamics: Beck/Cowan

Action-Inquiry: Torbert/Cook-Greuter

Cognitive Style	Culture	Core Concerns	Stage of Personal Development	Central Focus of Awareness
Instinctive	Band	Survival
Magical-Animistic	Tribe	Safety	Impulsive (Impulses rule reflexes)	Avoid Pain and Danger, Seek Pleasure, Release
“The Way of the Ancestors”
Ego-Centric Exploitative	Empire	Power/Action	Opportunist (Needs rule impulses)	Own Needs, Self- Interest, Self-Protection
“My Way or the Highway”
Purposeful Absolutist	Authority Structure	Stability	Diplomat (Norms rule needs)	Socially Desirable Behavior, Belonging
“The One Right Way”
Multiplistic Individualistic	Strategic Enterprise	Optimal Achievement	Expert (Craft logic rules norms)	Craft Logic, Consistency & Efficiency, Rationality
“The Most Successful Way”
Personalistic Relativistic	Social Network	Human Potential	Individualist (Radical relativism rules single system view)	Own Ability to have Impact, Multiple Perspectives
“All Ways Are Equally Valid”
Integrative Vision-logic	Systemic Flow	Alignment with Complex Reality	Strategist (Most valuable principles rule relativism)	Development Over Time, Systems Thinking
“The Best Way for Now, All Views Considered”
Harmonizing Contemplative	Holistic Organism	Global Harmony and Renewal	Magician (Deep processes rule principles)	Transforming Self & Others Interplay of awareness, action, thought, and effect
“The Way (Tao) Can Be Known, But Not By Conceptual Mind Alone”
			Ironist (Intersystemic development rules process)	